Masonic Block, Recently Burned, to Be Rebuilt This Summer.

The officers-elect of George Washington lodge, No. 51, F. and A. M., were duly installed at the regular monthly communication on Thursday evening, the 13th, by Past Master Leon E. Grant, and the officers for the ensuing year are: A. T. Marshall, W. M.; O. Fay Allen, S. W.; S. C. Allen, J. W.; H. N. Mattison, treasurer; O. E. Burgess, secretary; Rev. Robert Haseltine, S. D.; N. A. Griffin, J. D.; Dr. W. H. Cook, S. S.; C. R. Durkee, J. S.; Rev. J. A. Lawrence, chaplain; L. E. Grant, marshal, and F. E. Bixby, J. T. There was a full attendance of the brethren and it was decided to build a new block this summer on the site where the block owned by the lodge was recently destroyed by fire. A building committee consisting of the following members was appointed: A. T. Marshall, O. E. Allen, O. E. Tracy, H. N. Mattison, S. C. Wilson, O. E. Burgess and C. N. Dearborn. They were authorized to solicit funds, secure acceptable plans and award the contract. Several architects have already submitted plans and doubtless a contract will be awarded in the near future. Until the new Masonic home is ready for occupancy, the meetings of the lodge will be held in Ordway's hall, over the meat market.

Our readers will doubtless remember the sensational trial of the case of State vs. Anna Felch, at the June term of Orange county court in 1917, which resulted in an acquittal of the accused woman. The case went to supreme court on exceptions by the state and the supreme court has sent it back for retrial in county court, on the ground that errors against the state were shown to have been committed at the former trial. The case is now back in supreme court, on a writ of habeas corpus, brought by Attorneys Hoar and Fay of Barre and Darling of Chelsea, who appear for Mrs. Felch, on the ground that the supreme court had no jurisdiction of the question on which the case was remanded to county court. The matter will be heard by the supreme court at Montpelier, Feb. 26, and it is expected that ex-Atty. Gen. Herbert G. Barber of Brattleboro and State's Attorney John C. Sherburne of Randolph will appear for the state in these proceedings. An interesting question is presented in the case as to whether those interested in Mrs. Felch's present restraint are not liable for false imprisonment.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

EXPECTED TROUBLE FAILED.

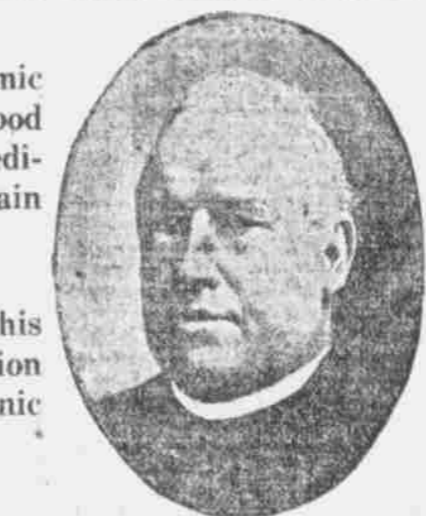

Berlin Had Her Alarms for Nothing Yesterday.

Berlin, Sunday, Feb. 16 (by The Associated Press).—Trouble had been expected in Berlin to-day from radical elements, but up to 5 o'clock this afternoon no disturbances had been reported anywhere in the city. The anticipated outbreak appears to have been lipped in the bud by the arrest late Saturday night of 50 members of a Spartacist and revolutionary soldiers' union, who had gathered in a hall, it was charged, to plan disturbances for to-day.

YOU CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL AFTER GRIP OR A HEAVY COLD

Weakened Victims of Epidemic Need Strength-Building Food Such as Father John's Medicine in Struggle to Regain Health.

The Great Food Value of This Old-Fashioned Prescription Proves Its Worth as Tonic for All the Family.

Following the grip epidemic which swept the country comes a period of great danger to those who have suffered from the disease even in its milder forms, who find themselves unable to regain normal strength and health. This weakness which seems to make recovery so hard and long-delayed is a period of special danger, because the resisting power of the system is lowered and the patient has little strength to fight off colds, coughs and other more serious illness. During this time of danger, the safe tonic for all the family is Father John's Medicine. This old-fashioned pure and wholesome food medicine contains strength-building, health-giving elements which are easily taken up by the weakened system and quickly made into new strength and health. Doctors agree that the epidemic will not be wholly conquered until the warm weather of the summer has come, and it is a measure of safety for everyone to keep fortified to resist the lurking grip germs. At the first sign of a cold, begin taking Father John's Medicine. It gives strength with which to fight off colds, grip and more serious illness. If you have a cold, remember that to neglect it is to invite grip or pneumonia. Remember that Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form and for that reason it is a safe food-building food for all the family—Adv.

RHEUMATISM IS A DISEASE OF THE BLOOD

This New Hampshire Woman Tried Building Up the Blood and Found Quick Relief.

The fact that rheumatism runs in families and that a tendency to it may be inherited stamps it as a disease of the blood. The poisons of rheumatism are in the blood, and as the disease progresses the blood loses red corpuscles, the part that carries oxygen, the great supporter of life. This is true of all debilitating diseases, but it is more marked in rheumatism than any other. A remedy that will restore the oxygen bearers in the blood will at once start to repair the damage that the disease has done in the vital fluid of the body. It is the oxygen in the blood that burns up the rheumatic poisons just as the oxygen in the air will burn up iron exposed to it, leaving nothing but rust.

It is evident, therefore, that it is highly important to overcome the anemia, or thinning of the blood, that is so characteristic of rheumatism, and there is good authority for the belief that the disease cannot be overcome until the blood is built up. For this purpose there is nothing better than the remedy employed by Mrs. M. A. Towle, of No. 43 Woodland street, Claremont, N. H.

"I had been a sufferer from rheumatism off and on for ten years or more," says Mrs. Towle, "and I believe I inherited it, for it runs in my family. I had so much pain in my arms that I could not comb my hair or even close a door. It was hard for me to find a position in which I could sleep, so great was the pain, and I had considerable headache. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave them a trial. Within ten days I began to experience relief. I took them for several weeks, and now I can use my arm without any trouble. I have very little pain, my sleep is restful, and I seldom have any headache. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to others and am glad to do so."

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write to-day for a free copy of our blood book with a special chapter on rheumatism—Adv.

UP THE LADDER

By ORVILLE R. MACOMBER.

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Don't I tell you my entire fortune is swept away—that I am a pauper!" Thus voiced old Anson Lorne and the tones were high-pitched, because the announcement seemed in novice to disturb his nephew, Wallace Drake. "You do tell me," responded Wallace, "and I'm sorry for your sake, but you're no pauper as long as I have a pair of strong arms and a brain in working order. I've been expecting you, uncle, and never were you more welcome. Forget your troubles and watch me pay back some of the unforgettable kindnesses you have showered on me for years."

"I—I declare!" faltered the old man, his voice husky with emotion, "it's—it's almost worth the loss of fortune to find one true heart among the many. It's too bad for you, I suppose you will have to give up college just as you was reaching the end?"

"I've arranged all that, Uncle Anson," said Wallace brightly. "As soon as I heard of your difficulties I saw your lawyer. He told me clearly that when you paid your debts you would have nothing left except some questionable securities, foisted on you by the unscrupulous brokers who have ruined you. I saw your doctor, too, uncle. I am not afraid of my getting along, but I am afraid you will worry over this trouble and break down. The doctor says you must get your mind off from it and find occupation. I've planned it all. We want to get on our feet. Then you must help."

"Why, I'm willing to," declared old Anson Lorne.

"All right. You let me be captain for a spell and follow my orders. It may be bare bread and butter for a time, but we're going to get results."

Anson Lorne went to sleep that night, mind relieved, free of care for the first time in many a long day. He was like a shipwrecked sailor finding a safe harbor after being sorely buffeted about by adverse wind and wave. When the collapse of his fortune had deserted him. It was this that depressed and well nigh crushed him. Now had come the word from Wallace Drake. With pride, with fervent joy the old man recognized one pure heart of gold, staunch as steel in the stress and strain of adversity.

Wallace Drake formulated no grand plans. When the crash came he had little cash, but he did have the equipment of an advanced college man. He proceeded to sell his library, his athletic outfit, all of his jewelry, all of his extra wardrobe and furniture. When he came finally to count up his liquid capital, he was agreeably surprised to find himself the possessor of nearly nine hundred dollars.

"We'll take a walk, Uncle Anson," he said one pleasant afternoon, and the stroll terminated at a little one-story building opposite a public school. There was a 10 by 12 storeroom and behind it two living apartments. The store shelves held school supplies, such as books, slates, stationery and the like, and some confectionery.

"Bottom rung of the business ladder, uncle," spoke Wallace cheerily. "All I'm thinking of is keeping your mind and time occupied. You love little children. You will have a clientele here to your heart's content."

It was marvelous how pluckily Anson Lorne accepted the humble conditions into which circumstances had plunged him. Wallace had secured a position as assistant at a physician's office and arranged so that by studying nights until the end of a year, he could graduate with a diploma. The variety, the activity, the steady, though small profit the little store brought in gave Mr. Lorne a vivid interest in the business, and soon he had a happy, welcome coterie of little ones who delighted in visiting "Grandpa Lorne." Uncle and nephew developed great housekeeping ability, and the old man averred he had never been so contented and happy in his life.

Then a young lady, a Miss Oro Scofield, began to drop into the store. She was a settlement worker, an heiress it was said, and the history of uncle and nephew interested her. Besides that, she discovered among some favorite books Wallace had saved from the wreck unique works on botany, and to his surprise and pleasure one afternoon Wallace found the charming young lady in question immersed in one of the same. This new friend brought an appreciated element into the life of the young man.
